ANARCHISTS ARE BECOMING ACTIVE

TRY TO ENCOURAGE THE RAILWAY STRIKERS TO REMAIN AWAY FROM WORK.

USE OF BOMBS IS BEGUN

Internal Machine Discovered With Large Amount of Combustible Material in It—Strike is Waning.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Oct. 14.—A powerful bomb was discovered by the police today at the foot of a tree near the American embassy. The attempted outrage is attributed to anarchists who sought to put new ginger into the railroad strike. The missile was removed to a laboratory and an examination showed it consisted of 300 grams cheddite powder and several iron bolts.

It is thought that it is similar to a bomb exploded last night a few doors from the Champs Elysees. Traffic conditions are generally improved today.

Aided by the military forces against them and the many arrests, strikers are returning to the railroads by the hundreds.

Paris was paralyzed by the strike. Her food supply has been cut off and prices are high. Half of France is without means of transportation. No trains are moving to the north or west. Mail is being carried on in automobiles. Three hundred thousand railroad employees are under military discipline, but refuse to act and open revolt is feared.

The promoter still continues to be firm in his action toward the strikers and this has done much to cause a cessation of trouble.

JANVRIN CASE GOES TO JURY

EITHER THIS EVENING OR EARLY TOMORROW MORNING.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS MADE

By District Attorney J. L. Fisher, M. G. Jeffris, and O. A. Oestreich Today.

Arguments in the Janvrin case were opened by counsel at the conclusion of testimony in rebuttal by the Messrs. McKee and L. W. Pollock this morning. District Attorney J. L. Fisher, for the prosecution, made a strong plea for conviction, viewing the case from many angles and reviewing every detail. He laid great stress upon the character of the witnesses for the prosecution, calling attention to their diversified employments and disinterestedness and contrasting these attributes with the fact that about half the witnesses for the defense were police officers or ex-police officers. He dwelt particularly on the testimony of Mrs. Behrend, arguing that she and not Mr. Jeffris or the defendant was the best judge as to whether or not Hayes had annoyed her in any way. She had testified that he did not and, even if Janvrin had pretended to arrest the man, he had no authority for so doing when he was committing no offense and the officer had no warrant nor process.

Prejudice and Passion.
The inquiry made of Jennie Leard: "Do you want a woman with that man?" was framed in language which was highly suggestive of a man who had been drinking. The bartender from Rockford had testified that he sold Janvrin a drink of whiskey at five o'clock on March 30 and the defendant had admitted that he had a glass of beer not long thereafter. Trouble might be expected when such drinks were mixed. Merrill Ashley had testified that he heard Janvrin declare Hayes under arrest but the prosecution had put a witness on the stand who saw Ashley running to the scene after the shooting began. Janvrin's exclamation when the poor old man with one limb rushed as if by a sledge hammer blow, with blood flowing from the forehead vein in the other and from his face, was lying on the ground—"I have been lying for you, my dirty car—I ought to have shot your head off!"—was the key to the whole situation, Janvrin had been lying for the man and what he did was done in hatred and violent passion. Four different people had explored him from four different directions not to shoot but to hold him to heart. There was no testimony to show that Hayes, if indeed he at any time did more than try to protect himself, kept on fighting after the first shot. Yet the officer scarcely paused to establish murder or manslaughter.

OWENS VALLEY ROAD NEAR COMPLETION

Last Project of Late Col. P. Huntington Will Become Accomplished Fact Tomorrow.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—The last project of the late Col. P. Huntington will become an accomplished fact tomorrow, when the final spike is driven in the new railroad through Owens Valley, marking the practical completion of the new road. Railroad men regard the Owens Valley line as not only a great enterprise, but, by far, the best road ever opened in this section. The road has been built for a four-fold purpose—to head off the Western Pacific from an easy way into Southern California; to tap a fertile and rich region by connecting Los Angeles and Owens Valley; to open a new tourist route from California to the East, and to relieve freight congestion that has up California every year just at the time the oranges are ready for shipment.

COMPARES PLATFORM TO A HOBBLE SKIRT

LaFollette's Magazine Talks Plainly of the New York State Republican Platform.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)
Madison, Oct. 14.—The New York state republican platform is compared to the hobble skirt in the leading editorial of LaFollette's Weekly Magazine today. The party in New York may move forward into the ranks of the progressives, the editorial says, but it will not do so because of its hobble platform; but in spite of it, "the hobble skirt may be beautiful. It may be pleasing to the eye but it is not built for speed. Moving forward in a hobble skirt is a matter of much labor and uncertainty and labor," the editorial says.

"The New York platform is hobbled. Hobbled with the sophistry of the 'old guard.' Hobbled with a full-some entry of the administration with its Hallingers, its Wickströms and Knoxes. Hobbled with unflinching praise of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law."

LIKE VILLAINY OF MELODRAMA

IS SUBSTANCE OF CHARGE AGAINST DR. WILLARD BURKE.

IS SOON TO FACE TRIAL

At Santa Rosa, Cal., For Alleged Attempt To Blow Up Girl and Illegitimate Child With Dynamite.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Santa Rosa, Cal., Oct. 14.—What promises to be one of the most sensational criminal trials that has taken place here in many years is scheduled to begin the latter part of next month, when Dr. Willard P. Burke is brought into court to answer to the charge of attempting to murder Miss Lu Etta Smith and her eleven-month-old illegitimate son, of whom Dr. Burke is said to be the father.

The wealth and prominence of the accused physician, the unusual method which he is accused of employing in his alleged attempt at double murder, and the subsequent flight of the intended victim to Japan to avoid testifying at the trial are some of the remarkable elements in a case which has already attracted wide attention and the trial of which will undoubtedly be followed with much interest.

Dr. Burke, who is a man well known in years, is the proprietor of a large sanitarium at Alturas, five miles north of this city. On the night of February 5 last the patients and attendants of the sanitarium were startled by a loud explosion in the sanitarium grounds. Upon investigation it was found that the explosion had occurred beside a house tent in which slept Miss Lu Etta Smith and her infant son. Further investigation showed that the explosion had undoubtedly been caused by a stick of dynamite. The perpetrator of the outrage, however, had made a poor selection in placing the explosion. The lives of the intended victims were spared, though it was many weeks before the woman recovered from the shock.

Miss Lu Etta Smith, the intended victim, was a student at the University of California when she met Dr. Burke. Later she went to live at the sanitarium, where her child was born. The child was named Willard P. Burke Smith.

The investigation of the authorities following the explosion led to the arrest of Dr. Burke and his indictment on the charge of attempted murder. Dr. Burke obtained a quantity of dynamite and took it with him on his return to Santa Rosa from a visit to the Phoenix mine, near Groville, which he owns.

One of the peculiar features of the case was the disappearance of Miss Smith when the date set for Dr. Burke's trial approached and her subsequent return. Sometime after the dynamiting episode the woman left this vicinity and went to Berkeley. Subsequently she left Berkeley and was next located in Japan. According to report she was given a sum of money sufficient to take her and her child to Japan and was promised regular remittances so long as she remained there. But it is said that the promised remittances failed to materialize and the result was that through the generosity of some Americans whom she met in Tokyo she was enabled to return to California. How ever this may be it is certain that she placed herself in communication with the authorities here and is now in readiness to appear as the principal witness for the prosecution when the case of Dr. Burke comes up for trial next month.

Struggling to the end with all the resources of a man possessed of wealth and unusual cunning the aged physician now realizes that he must stand trial on the serious accusations made against him. Failing to obtain a further delay in the trial he is now engaged in preparing a defense to the charges against him. His attorneys are Hiram W. Johnson, the republican candidate for governor of California, and J. Rolfe Loppo of this city. The prosecution will be conducted by District Attorney Charles F. Lea and his assistant, G. W. Hoyle.

FARMER RESENTS THE NAME OF SCHEMERS

Says Grocers Buy Their Potatoes Out of the County—Believe Farmers Have Right to Sell From Wagon.

To the Editor: In your issue of Oct. 12th, you print an article under the heading "Schemers Seeking to Defraud People" and make the caption apply to a large class of people who are as much entitled to the good opinion of the Gazette as the other class in whose interests it was seemingly written. There are two sides to this question. They have had their inning. Now let me have the but. Nearly every farmer in Rock county has a patch of potatoes, many of them more than they can use, and they will very properly resent being classified as "schemers" and "frauds" simply because they offer their surplus at private houses after a market has been refused at the stores. They can see no reason why "sauce for the goose" is not "sauce for the gander" as much now as it was in old times, and when they read in the same issue, and in many other recent issues of your paper, "Buy it in Janesville," they think the advice should apply with equal force to the grocer as it does to themselves. When they see things in his store shipped from abroad, which he could have bought at home and at just as good prices, they not only feel justified in sending to catalogue houses for their supplies, but in selling the products of the farm wherever they can find a market. Every grocer in the city has potatoes on his floor today which have come from the south, and three of them to my personal knowledge are not ready to buy the home product. I tried to make contracts with them myself. While we may admit that the grocer needs and should have his small profit on the potato trade, the fact should not be overlooked that the grocer needs the proceeds of his crop at fair prices to pay the larger profits on tea and other necessities and the advanced prices on coffee.

Perhaps a few facts which I can verify may not be out of place and will serve to throw some light on the subject. When my early crop was ready for market in July, 1909, I called on eleven grocers and found that everyone of them had enough southern potatoes in barrels to last them a week. They were selling for 30 cents a peck, or one dollar a bushel. Four days later I had a load hauled in. There was no market for them at the stores, but one grocer said he would take part of the load at 75 cents a bushel to accommodate me. They were still selling at the same price, hence the small profit on a full bushel would be 33 1/2 cents, assuming that the bushel he sold by measure contained as much as the bushel he bought by weight. When sold at 30 cents a peck, the small profit would be a full 60% without taking into account what he would gain in using the deep measure without a bottom which, although it holds the legal number of cubic inches, in liquids, cannot by any possibility, be made to hold a peck of potatoes. I refused the accommodation, and sold my entire crop, more than 200 bushels, at private houses for one dollar a bushel. I have 900 bushels out on the farm now, a good many more than my wife and I can eat, and while, in common with many others, I would prefer selling to dealers, I shall try to dispose of them in the same old way, if they continue to ignore the Gazette's advice to "Buy in Janesville," and in giving my customers choice potatoes and full measure, run my chances on being classed with "schemers" and "frauds."

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR APOLLO CLUB

Directors Authorize the Arrangement of An Exceptionally Fine Series of Concerts.

Musical lovers of Janesville will have an opportunity this coming winter to hear some of the finest artists in the musical world if the present plans of the Apollo club are carried out. At a recent meeting of the board of directors it was decided to make a decided innovation this year and bring to Janesville, under the auspices of the club, some of the best known singers that could be obtained. With this in view, President George S. Parker yesterday concluded arrangements for the appearance here on November first of Rota Ponia, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan and Boston Opera companies. She will sing in forty operas during the coming winter, twenty for each of the two organizations, and November first was the only date for which she could be secured for Janesville.

Her voice is a beautiful lyric. She sings with great depth of expression and possesses an unusually charming stage presence. She was a pupil of Juan De Hessko and two years ago was engaged to sing at the Metropolitan opera house where she is still a member. On the same evening when Miss Ponia sings, appear two other artists, neither of which are capable of filling the evening program. They are Arturo Tibaldi, the great solo violinist, and Manfred Malkin, the Russian pianist. These artists, including Miss Ponia, sell singly for $500, but by combining them in one evening and taking the only open date, made it possible to secure this great attraction.

The dues of the Apollo club are but $3.00 per year to members, with a limited membership. The directors invite music-lovers to become members, as the merely nominal membership fee will enable one to hear a series of recitals and entertainments by world wide known artists that would cost many dollars to hear in Chicago or New York City.

Application for membership should be made at once to the president, Geo. S. Parker, or C. P. Beers, secretary.

Generous Buying Occasioned by Special Prices

Last Saturday evening some 200 pairs of men's shoes were offered at a ridiculously low price. The shoes being somewhat narrower than those approved by the latest fashion was the cause of the little prices. The shoes went like hot cakes, 125 pairs being sold out of the 200 offered. The remaining 75 pairs will be sold tonight between the hours of 8:30 and closing time, at a price even cheaper than they were offered before. It is absolutely necessary that they be cleared out of stock. See large ad on page 8 for particulars.

Wanted Information.

A couple of zealous anglers were fishing for trout time in a sheet of water rented for the purpose, when one of them, through carelessness, fell in. His friend, after great exertion, brought him to land, but it was a long time before he recovered consciousness. No sooner had he opened his eyes, however, than the other asked him: "Tell me, did you see a fish?"

Hayes was a "poor old man," then as was the speaker and several who saw him before him in the jury box. All that the attorneys could do for him was to get him out of the city for evidence could do had been done to compass the forfeiture of rights and liberties for a citizen of Rock county whose life had been without a stain, but from the speaker's viewpoint the prosecution had failed to establish a case against Frederick Janvrin. One of the broad general principles that must prevail for the peace and dignity of the State of Wisconsin was at stake—"Shall an officer be sent to prison for doing his duty?" The uncontested facts showed that trouble started between John Hayes and an officer of the law; that Hayes backed this officer 100 feet, or more, and pointed him over the head and shoulders with a stick. How long must an officer submit to that sort of thing? What was he to do—turn and run? Such a course would not only have terminated Janvrin's service as an officer but would have reflected upon the police force of Beloit and every other one throughout the land. It was proven again and again by the State before the defense called a witness that Hayes backed the officer. It wasn't necessary for the officer to take even one step backward.

Action Was Warranted.
It wasn't necessary for Janvrin to hold court and determine whether or not Hayes was moving. Janvrin acted before he arrested him. As for the term "assault," it was harmless colloquy along—concerned with the young gallant who said upon a girl. When Janvrin acted she would and her own business and that everything would be all right, what was the justification if, as the State would have it, everything had been at right all the while? But after all this consideration was of no great account. What Janvrin thought and what he was warranted in thinking when he saw a drunken man chasing a girl, were the important things.

That Drink of Whiskey.
Gallagher, the Rockford bartender who testified that he sold Janvrin a drink of whiskey, had not dared deny the conversation with one of the Hayes brothers overheard on an interurban car. One of the Hayes had said to him: "You'll not fall down on that" and he had answered that he wouldn't. Why had it been necessary for one of the Hayes to exact a promise from a 250 pound Gallagher who couldn't fall down if he wanted to, to exact such a promise, if it was a case of telling the truth? This little episode served to show what Janvrin had been up against.

Bad Men Dead.
It was an unpopular subject for discussion and the proposition that there are bad men dead had to be reconsidered. None had been dead some 20 years but nobody quarrels about the mention that he was a corrupt butcher and debaucher of women. But the speaker wouldn't say anything against Hayes, were it not for the fact that Janvrin's liberty was at stake. The fact of the matter was that he drank and consorted with tramps; was known as a King Hobo, is in truth. He was gone from Beloit 20 years and during that time nothing good of him was heard. The counsel also paid his respects to Coulter and some of the other witnesses for the prosecution. A recess was taken at noon and Mr. Jeffris resumed his argument at two o'clock this afternoon.

Arguments Completed.
Attorney Jeffris was nearing the close of his address at three o'clock this afternoon and Attorney O. A. Oestreich was to close for the prosecution. Whether Judge Grimm will charge the jury tonight or wait until tomorrow morning will depend largely upon the time occupied by Mr. Oestreich in finishing the State's argument.

Janvrin on Stand.
Frederick J. Janvrin took the stand in his own behalf at 2:45 yesterday afternoon and the direct and cross examination lasted nearly two hours. His wife, who had been in the court rooms through the day, left as he stepped up to face the lawyers, judge and jury. His testimony for the most part was straightforward and convincing, though there was one moment of confusion when he was describing that phase of the encounter wherein Hayes is alleged to have stepped from the curb and stooped to pick up some sort of a weapon. When asked by Attorney Oestreich how he interpreted the movement at the time, Janvrin temporarily paused with his severely and replied that he did not know whether the man was stooping to get a weapon or had stumbled.

Bitter Feeling Existed.
Witness stated that he was 53 years of age; that he had been engaged in the butcher and ice business and also employed as a sand molder since he left the police force; that he had known Hayes for a great many years prior to his departure from Beloit and his return in the summer of 1909; that he was 5 feet, 2½ inches tall and weighed 170 pounds while Hayes was a little more than six feet tall and weighed, Janvrin thought, 235 or 240 pounds and was a strong man. Witness had had occasion to arrest Hayes on various occasions for drunkenness and in some instances Hayes had cursed him and resisted arrest. On one occasion the man, while being conducted to the station, had struck him in the ear. Chief of Police Quinlan had taken a hand in that instance, and aided in getting the man's prisoner to the station. More than once, when Hayes was drunk, the witness had tried to persuade him to go home peacefully. Hayes had always seemed to entertain a bitter hatred for him (Janvrin) and once when a saloon proprietor had requested that the man be removed for creating a disturbance, Janvrin, in order to avoid trouble, had requested another officer to take him out. Notwithstanding the known hostile attitude of the man, Janvrin had always spoken to him when they met. Hayes sometimes acknowledged the salutation and sometimes he didn't.

Janvrin said that he had been uprised at the police station of complaints having been made against Hayes for insulting women. That evening he first caught sight of the man running by the interurban station. Witness believed that he had been drinking hard and staggered slightly. He stopped Miss Leard, whom, according to Janvrin, Hayes was following and asked her if she wanted to have anything to do with him. When she indicated that she did not care for his company, he turned to Hayes who had stepped aside and seemed to be waiting for him in a defiant attitude. In response to his demand regarding the meaning of his conduct, Hayes came toward him, then stepped to the curb and picked up something. Witness thought it was a piece of iron he had noticed lying alongside the railroad tracks the day before. He promptly undertook to ward off the attack and while he was so doing the weapon struck his thumb and finger. Witness declared that he was also struck on the head and one arm; that Hayes kept coming toward him and that he kept backing away.

Janvrin Variation of Shooting.
Finally the defendant, after having had the cane knocked out of his hands, pulled a gun and shot at him, holding the free hand before his face meantime. This did not have the expected effect and he fired the other shots to prevent his being caught from telling him what he supposed was a piece of iron. The only purpose in shooting was to stop Hayes. On the cross examination witness admitted that he had had a glass of syrup and whiskey (two parts syrup and one part liquor) in the morning and a glass of beer between four and five o'clock in the afternoon.

Other Witnesses.
One of the principal witnesses for the defense who testified yesterday afternoon was Deputy Sheriff J.

H. Root of South Beloit who declared that a complaint had come to him of Hayes having attempted to hit and kiss Mrs. Russell. Yet, Mr. Wells had made the complaint. Hayes, he thought, was drunk when he accosted Mrs. Wells and had later apologized for his conduct and the matter had been dropped.

TO VISIT PANAMA AFTER ELECTION

PRESIDENT TAFT WILL LEAVE FOR ISTHMIUS WITHIN THREE WEEKS.

TO MAKE STUDY OF PLANS

As Determined There Shall Be No
Monopoly of Coal Interests on Canal—Another Slide at Culebra Cut.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 14.—Panama canal fortification and the question of whether the canal zone shall be administered by the civil or military arm of the government are the two pressing problems which decided President Taft to pay a flying visit to the Isthmus immediately after the November election.

Chief Engineer George W. Coochala conferred with President Taft at the summer White House, and at its conclusion the president announced he would leave for Panama on November 21 on the fast cruiser North Carolina, which will be attended by the cruiser Montana.

Although advisers have counseled the president against leaving the country for the eleven days required to make the trip, he feels that the reasons brought to his attention in support of the visit demand his immediate presence on the Isthmus.

Will Make Study of Plans.
President Taft will make a special study of plans for the distribution of coal at the two terminals of the canal in order to prevent any monopoly of the sale of coal. He is determined that private interests shall not seize the monopoly and to this end, if the forthcoming inspection warrants such action, coal stations will be established by the government which will supply not only war vessels, but ships of commerce.

President Taft believes that the facts obtained should be embodied in recommendations for presentation to congress at the earliest possible moment. Although January 1, 1915, is given as the date for the completion of the canal, it is expected that the work will be finished before then and the president insists that the details of administration shall be arranged in readiness for the opening.

One of the problems to be confronted is the form of government for the canal. It may be decided to govern the zone along the lines followed by England with her crown colonies.

Concerned Over Toll Question.
The question of tolls is one which gives the president much concern. It is the purpose to make the canal a paying investment for the government, but rates which would return more than 2 1/2 per cent, on the $400,000,000, which will have been paid out when the canal is completed, may be considered as excessive by ship-owners that they would not patronize the canal.

Experts figure that 2 1/2 per cent, on $400,000,000 annually is what the government pays for the vast sum invested in the canal.

Another Great Slide in Canal.
Washington, Oct. 14.—Another great slide has developed in the east bank of the Culebra cut of the Panama canal at Bas Obispo, where a quantity of rock estimated at 75,000 cubic yards is slowly moving toward the canal prism. This slide is 95 feet above the sea level and the break follows the lines of a fault in the rock.

It is estimated that $47,920,848 will be required to continue the construction of the Panama canal during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

LOCKED UP IN CAR FIVE DAYS.

Two Boys Arrive in Pittsburg in Exhausted Condition.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—Locked for five days in a box car without food and water, Willard Segura, aged fifteen years, and Joseph Pendergast, aged sixteen years, both of Chicago, were found in the Fort Wayne railroad yards here. Pendergast was conscious, but his companion lay as if dead. They were taken to the Allegheny general hospital and revived.

The boys tell that they crawled into the box car five days ago and the doors were slammed shut on them.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 14.—Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin narrowly escaped death in a fall of fifty feet from his biplane in a flight over the Iowa City fair grounds when his engine failed to work properly and shot the thousand-pound machine directly down onto a roof of a barn. The aviator was severely bruised and his machine made a total wreck, while the roof of the barn was completely demolished.

GUBERNATORIAL SITUATION IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Interest in the political contest in South Dakota centers in the governorship. The leading candidates are Gov. Robert S. Vessey, progressive republican, who is seeking re-election, and Chumcey L. Wood, former mayor of Rapid City, who is the nominee of the democrats of the democratic party.

For years past, Vessey has been identified with the progressive wing of the republican party of the state, and two years ago, and again in June last, won the nomination over stalwart republican opponents. The primaries last June were hotly contested and feeling was quite bitter between the two republican factions. It was because of this that the democrats played Mr. Wood in the field, their plan being to take advantage of the alleged republican defection. While South Dakota has a normal republican majority of not less than 25,000 or 30,000, the democratic figure of a sufficient number of stalwart republicans will bolt Gov. Vessey to give Mr. Wood a victory and hand him in the governor's chair.

The republicans say their party is united and that the hope of the democrats so far as the governorship or any other office is concerned is a vain one. The republican ticket, the republicans point out, is made up of both stalwart and progressive republicans, and that because of this the republicans of the state are united.

and will support their party ticket practically to a man. They also point out that Theodore Roosevelt, on the occasion of his visit to South Dakota, some weeks ago, publicly gave utterance to the hope that Gov. Vessey and Congressman Martin and Burke would be re-elected and say the republicans of the state will heed the advice of the experienced.

The democrats are conducting their campaign on the charge that the republican administration of Gov. Vessey has been extravagant and wasteful of the taxpayers' money. In reply to this charge the republicans say the state has had wonderful growth during the past few years and that more money than formerly is absolutely necessary to meet the new and increased legitimate demands and keep South Dakota in the forefront of the prosperous and growing states of the northwest. The republicans further predict that the republican congressional and state ticket will have not less than 20,000 majority at the November election, and this majority may run nearer 30,000.

The republicans are basing their campaign on the record of having enacted various reform measures, and the promise of enacting additional reform legislation. The democrats say they have a good fighting chance to elect their nominee for governor and also their two nominees for congress.

GUBERNATORIAL SITUATION IN CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, Cal.—It has been a whirlwind campaign in California. Hiram W. Johnson, republican candidate for governor, and Theodore A. Bell, who hopes to lead the democrats to victory, Johnson, who is one of the leading attorneys of the state, and who was the insurgent candidate at the August primaries in which he won by a surprisingly large vote, rendered valuable assistance to Frances J. Hony in the conduct of the "graft prosecutions" in San Francisco. Bell, who was the standard-bearer of the democrats in the gubernatorial contest four years ago, is also one of the state's leading legal lights.

Johnson has been making a remarkable campaign from one end of the state to the other and before the day of election he expects to have visited every important town in California. The republican standard-bearer has been received enthusiastically wherever he has appeared and his meetings have been largely attended. He is extremely confident of the result and says he would not be surprised to win by a plurality of at least 50,000. Meyer Lessor, chairman of the republican state central committee, says the indications are for a sweeping republican success and that Johnson's popularity will run from 75,000 to 100,000. Bell has been making his campaign throughout the state in an automobile. He has a pleasing personality, which has resulted in making many new friends for him in all sections. Large audiences have also greeted him. In his speeches Bell has told his hearers that in the work of freeing from all corporate control he has been the pioneer, and that he believes the people of the Golden state will bestow their rewards where they belong. Bell is confident that a large number of republicans will cast their votes for him, these republicans being the regulars, who were opposed to Johnson at the primaries, and he believes that the votes of those republican regulars, who have been largely attended, will be a solid democratic following, will win the election for him.

CUSTOMS FRAUD ON FIFTH AVENUE

FIRM HELD FOR SWINDLING
UNITED STATES.

STORE RAIDED, GOODS SEIZED

Alleged Government Has Been for Years Systematically Cheated Out of Millions by Importing Concern
—Millionaires Among Customers.

New York, Oct. 14.—Charged with systematically swindling the United States, out of millions of dollars of customs duties, Benjamin J. Duveen, one of the resident managers of Duveen, Brothers, No. 302 Fifth avenue, the greatest art dealers and importers in the United States, was arrested on a bench warrant by federal officers. Other members of the firm are also involved.

Henry Duveen, his uncle, was arrested upon his arrival in New York on the Cunarder Lusitania. Duveen was released on bail of $50,000 for examination before United States Commissioner Shields. United States District Attorney Wiese and Assistant District Attorney Wemple asked that the prisoners' bail be fixed at $100,000, declaring that the frauds of which the wealthy art dealer is accused had been systematically practiced for a long period of years and that the results of their operations in cheating the government were appalling. After a whispered conversation between the commissioner and District Attorney Wiese the amount of the bail was placed at $50,000 and he was released.

Millionaires Are Customers.
Duveen Brothers for many years have numbered among their customers nearly all the millionaire art collectors in the United States. The firm was established in New York 32 years ago. The parent houses are in London and Paris. Joel J. Duveen, who established the house in New York, died only two years ago while visiting Paris. He was a big man in Fifth avenue is without some work of art brought to the United States by the New York house. Among their largest and best-known customers are J. Pierpont Morgan, Otto H. Kahn, and Mrs. Collis P. Huntington. They make a specialty of antiques.

Other members of the firm whose names were included in the warrant of arrest are Joel J. Jr., Joseph A. and Louis J. The first three are brothers of Benjamin J. Duveen and the last named is an uncle. All of them except Benjamin J. live in Europe and are connected either with the London or Paris house.

Valuable Art Works Seized.
The arrest of Benjamin J. Duveen was made after a sensational raid of the famous store by six United States officers, led by Acting Deputy Surveyor of the Port Edwin R. Norwood. The officers immediately seized the books and other records of the firm and took charge of the fashionable establishment in the name of the United States government. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of art works were seized and carried off to the custom house, where they will be kept until the case is finally disposed of.

ASK GOVERNOR TO OUST MAYOR.
Citizens Declare Zanesville Executive Falls to Enforce the Laws.
Columbus, O., Oct. 14.—Fearing a repetition of the Newark lynching in Zanesville because of the open defiance of the law, Zanesville citizens have filed charges with Governor Harmon, against Mayor A. H. Gorrell, asking his removal.

Gorrell is alleged to have refused to enforce the law against saloonkeepers, gambling and disorderly houses, to have permitted attacks upon citizens, who insisted on law enforcement, and to have encouraged lawlessness. Zanesville is in a "dry" county.

MRS. CHANLER SCORES A POINT.

Cavalleri's Husband Is Enjoyed From Disposing of Assets.

New York, Oct. 14.—Justice Guy granted Mrs. Julia Chamberlain Chanler, divorced wife of "Sheriff" Bob Chanler, a temporary injunction restraining Chanler, his second wife, Lina Cavalleri, and the trustees in charge of the Chanler estate from disposing of any of his assets. The application for a permanent injunction will be made within a few days. She charges the antenuptial agreement with the singer will interfere with the payment of her $20,000 a year alimony.

Eyes Sealed by Pitch.

Terra Haute, Ind., Oct. 14.—When Fred Berger lifted the lid of a bottle of boiling pitch, it sprayed over his face so thickly that his eyes were sealed. Surgeons say the pitch cannot be removed for several days. Berger says he can move his eyeballs, but it is doubtful whether he will ever see again.

THREE TROT RECORDS BROKEN.

Joan Wins Walnut Hall Farm Cup Race at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 14.—Three world's records were smashed at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association fall meeting here. The Harvester, driven by the veteran Johnnie Ed. Sears, lowered the world's two-mile record held by Crescens from 4:17 to 4:15 1/4, trotting the last quarter in the sensational time of 31 1/2 seconds.

Alleen Wilson, 2:02 1/4, a black mare by Arrow Wood owned by John W. Conkley, Lexington, set a new record for pacing mares to wagon, negotiating the distance in 2:04 1/4. In the Walnut Hall farm cup race, the four-year-old, bay mare Joan, by Directum Sider, broke the first heat in 2:05 1/4, setting a new record for the race, and the third heat of the same event she trotted the mile in 2:04 3/4, making a world's record for a four-year-old of any sex.

RATE SUSPENSION EXTENDED.

Roads West of Chicago Move Date Back to Feb. 1, 1911.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The important announcement was made by the interstate commerce commission that the railroads west of Chicago, including those in the official classification, the Western Trunk line, the trans-Missouri and the Illinois freight committee territories, have agreed to suspend until February 1, 1911, all increases of rates.

Under previous agreements with these railroads the increases were suspended until November 1, 1910, but the carriers recognize that the importance of the issues and the volume of evidence presented make it absolutely impossible for the commission to decide these cases before November 1.

LINER HELD; CHOLERA FEARED.

Breslau, at Baltimore, Has Three Cases of Sickness on Board.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14.—The North German Lloyd steamship Breslau, which arrived from Bremerhaven, with 1,100 passengers aboard, is being held at quarantine pending the result of investigation by the health authorities of the cases of three strange passengers who were ill during the voyage. Thus far cultures taken from the ship have failed to indicate the presence of the cholera germ, but absolute assurance that the disease is not present will not be established before tomorrow.

Milk as a Food.

Analyses prove that one quart of milk containing five per cent. butter fat and costing in the market from 6 to 12 cents, is equal in food value to five-sixths of a pound of sirloin steak, costing from 15 to 20 cents, and, as meats are generally cooked, it is probably far more digestible and the comparative value greater than indicated.

Caring for Animals.

The Woman's League for Animals in New York city, of which Mrs. James Speyer is the president, has done a great deal of good work. One thousand cards, illustrating the heads of dogs, cats and horses, diagramming the proper place in which a bullet should be placed in order to put the animal out of pain as quickly as possible, were distributed this year.

THEATRE

The management of the Myers theatre announces the forthcoming engagement of Adolf Philipp's German musical sensation, "Alma, Wo Wohnt Du?" ("Alma, Where Do You Live?") which will be seen here Tuesday, Oct. 18, matinee and evening. "Alma, Wo Wohnt Du?" which has only recently closed a most successful engagement at the Whitney and Chicago Opera House, is said to be one of the a record run of more than one year in New York which is evidence enough to convince the most skeptical regarding the merits of the piece. American theatregoers, who have absolutely no knowledge of the German language can readily understand the story of the play. The "Alma, waltz" which is one of the important features of the performance is a most infectious melody.

will be made to keep the standard of excellence up to the high mark of this successful producer. The book of the play is by two famous authors, Wm. and Cecil DeMille, the music is furnished by Paul Hephrens and the lyrics by Vincent Bryan. With such writers as these interested in the composition of a play, it is approximately impossible for it to be anything short of triumphal.

Why Not Light Up "The Great White Way" in Janesville, With Gas?

Spectacular and decorative outside lighting has become a popular necessity. Every town wants its "White Way" and wants it the whitest and brightest of any town of its size in the country.

The great majority of these "White Way" institutions are due to the private enterprise of local merchants; they know the advertising value of light.

The Welsbach Multi-flex Outdoor Lamp, the lamp that's made good, is the most efficient street lamp in existence. It costs least to maintain, it gives most light for the money.

They are guaranteed wind, rain and bug proof, and positively burn in the coldest weather. Gas Lights have not failed in the past decade.

They are now used in many cities, a number of which were mentioned in yesterday's issue. Here are some more, picked at random from all over the world.

Hoboken, N. J. Hamilton, Ont. Waltham, Mass. London, Eng. Paris, France
Easton, Pa. Washington, Ind. Harrisburg, Pa. Camden, N. J.

We Hope For Janesville, Wis.

Today the Question is: What Kind of Light Will Janesville Use?

Gas Light Posts are Cheapest, Gas Light Posts are More Efficient, Gas Lights do Not Diminish, Gas Light is the Whitest Light, Gas Light is the Most Economical,
Gas Light gives the most Practical Distribution. All these facts we will prove by demonstration.

The Gas Light Company will furnish figures for cost of installation and maintenance as low as figures furnished by others, and these figures will include a patrol service by which all lamps are inspected twice a day, and properly lighted and turned off at stated hours, and give most light for the money.

Gas Light Posts can be purchased at any price, the most expensive or those of moderate cost, and at the prices are just as ornamental as any post on the market.

"THE CAUSE OF DYS-PEPSIA AND ITS CURE."

Most people imagine that food is digested in the stomach. This is only partly true or rather mostly not true.
The stomach secretes pepsin and the necessary acids to digest meat, eggs, etc., that is albumin, as most of our food consists of fats and starch. The work of most cases of dyspepsia is not in the stomach but in the pancreas and small intestines. The pancreatic gland secretes pancreatic juice which dissolves and digests fats while diastase is the main digester, digesting all starchy foods, bread, potatoes, peas, cakes, etc. These are all digested in the small intestines. Improper eating or overeating of certain substances or insufficient secretion, necessarily calls for more pancreatic and diastase than nature ordinarily supplies. Now, what's the remedy? If peas and cakes don't agree with you or your stomach is weak, why, take pancreatic juice and diastase to temporarily assist nature and to these good stomach tonics like Gentian, Lactio nido, Cascara and aromatics, and you have a scientific and efficient stomach remedy. Mr. Penning, our Graduate Pharmacist, has compounded this prescription so many times that we now call it Digestion Remedy No. 20263. We advise you to preserve this number and at once get a bottle for any case of indigestion or stomach trouble. The price is 50c.
This remedy is not a patent medicine,
but a perfectly harmless prescription compounded for you fresh in liquid form, the only proper way of taking stomach remedies as tablets do not thoroughly mix with the food to give best results. Remember the name, Dis-gestion Remedy No. 20263. Indor-

Left Child Practically Unharmed.
Escaping alive after a train had passed over him was the experience of George James Randall, a four-year-old boy, living with his parents at Hull, England. The child had climbed up the embankment and was toddling along the track when a coal train of 8 cars came along. The driver did not see the child nor did he hear the agonized shouts of the spectators—amongst whom was the boy's uncle—who were too far off to render assistance. The child was seen to be struck down, and the spectators anticipated it had been cut to pieces.
When the train had passed the boy was found lying between the rails with only an injury to the head. The coupling links had struck and stunned the child, and it had lain motionless while the train passed.

QUESTION TO BE

SPECIAL ELECTION ON BRIDGES
ON GENERAL ELECTION DAY

BONDS WILL BE ISSUED

If Electors Favor New Bridges, Bonds
Will Cover Total Cost and Special
Levy Will Be Made To Retire
Bonds.

At the special meeting of the common council last evening, called to consider the bridge question, a resolution offered by Mayor Carlo calling for a special election on the question of building bridges of steel and concrete at Fourth avenue and at Racine street on November 8, the general election day, was adopted.
Eight Ald. were present at the session, Aldermen Buchholz and Shurman being absent. City Engineer Kerch, who is suffering with rheumatism and on whose account the meeting was postponed from Monday night, was unable to be present.

Mayor Carlo, in opening the meeting, outlined the facts of the case, stating that it was for the council to decide whether the question should be submitted to the people at the November election and making reference to the opinion given by Attorney Jeffris.
Mount, Smith & Avery that the money to pay for the bridges, if the people voted in favor of them would have to be raised by a special tax in one year.
City Attorney Maxfield held that the council could authorize a special bond issue after the question of building the two bridges had been submitted to the people.

The Mayor had secured an estimate from a bridge construction company of the cost of building the two bridges and stated that the estimate made for structures of steel and concrete, similar to the Court street bridge, was $17,000 for the Fourth avenue bridge and $25,000 for a bridge at Racine street, a total of $42,000. Reference was made to the section in the charter which refers to the Fourth avenue bridge and Attorney Maxfield, in answering the question as to whether a bridge could be built there said that if the council failed to repair or reconstruct that bridge the purpose for which the bridge was purchased were defeated. In an opinion read by the council he said that the city fathers had power to decide whether the question of building bridges should be submitted to the electors of the city.

Mayor Carlo urged that action on this be taken at once in order that the notice of election might be published three weeks preceding the day of election, as required by law.
He said that City Engineer Kerch objects to any more wooden bridges being constructed in the city and preferred to let the matter drop rather than have wooden bridges constructed.

When the question as to what material should be used in the work Aldermen Dulla and Brown both spoke in favor of steel and concrete as the most durable. Alderman Dulla recommended the building of a new bridge at Fourth avenue as a more economical measure than making repairs, which would cost the city $1500.

City Attorney Maxfield held that the issue of bonds for $42,000 for the construction of the bridges could be made by the council, but that the charter restricted the levying of a special tax to redeem the bonds and interest accruing on them, not to exceed eight per cent, to $20,000. He was contrary to the opinion of Atorney Jeffris that to pay for the bridge
a special tax would have to be levied in one year, which would make the building of the bridges prohibitive according to the charter.

The common council took the city attorney's construction of the charter and in accordance passed the resolution providing that if the people vote in favor of building the bridges, the common council shall issue bonds of $42,000 and levy a tax for the retirement of them, a special tax year until the debt is paid not to exceed $20,000.

Pittsburg will be a city imbrag-boost by saying: "Pittsburg has caught the spirit. Its baked streets are to be cooled by shade trees; the limbs of which will form protection from the noonday sun and cast spectral shadows by night. Its bare rocks

BUSINESS IN LEAF
—BECOMING ACTIVE

Long Period of Dullness in Tobacco
Market Is Apparently Nearing
Its End.

After a long and tiresome wait, the Edgerton Reporter says, something like old time business is coming back to packers of Wisconsin tobacco. The past month has witnessed more transactions than the market has seen since the 1905 crop. At the last the trade has come to realize that the available binder supply is becoming limited and the old-fashioned policy that has prevailed for two or three years past, of accumulating and the large consumers have entered the market and secured ample stocks, not only for immediate needs, but to keep their factories supplied until another crop was ready. While recent trading has been largely of the 1909 packings, old stocks of all years have been sought after and are finding sale in the present needs of manufacturers, getting in better demand.
When sales of the past few weeks look up to $2,000 or more cases it is a pretty sure indication that cigar manufacturing has reached a more stable business and lends much encouragement to packers who have been waiting and hoping for a change that has long been delayed. Even the holders of 1907 and some ray of hope that this neglected and much abused tobacco will now come into its own.
The sale of several large holdings of cured leaf, with rumors of numbers of other smaller packings, is the chief topic of the market this week.
Recent transactions in Wisconsin leaf involving a million dollars or more have been dragging for the past three years. A side from the big sale put through by the Rosewald farm noted elsewhere, A. Colin & Co. have purchased the packing of W. T. Jefferson at Sparta of 1000 cases and Campbell & Peterson of Orlenville with others, aggregating 5000 boxes of '09. Julius Marquette is also credited with having made large purchases aggregating close to 3000 cases.

The flurry in old goods has stimulated some buying of the new crop again as well as anything of cured leaf remaining in first hands for "old" former buyers are well maintained. The new crop is now so well under contract that the balance seems likely to be taken over by steady and quiet methods. The weather conditions favorable to the growth of shaded leaf and no frosts have yet come to kill vegetation even.
The shipment of storage reached 100 cases from this market to all points for the week.

BUY RUBEROID ROOFING AND—
BUY RIGHT

The oldest roofing on the market
—laid on roofs nineteen years ago, and still there—sold in every country in the world—subject to the harshest competition—tried by over three hundred imitators, many of whom copy its very name as closely as possible—Ruberoid Roofing still dominates the roofing market in the quality of the product and the volume of its sales.

You can identify genuine, lasting Ruberoid by the large trade-mark picture of the Ruberoid man, shown herewith, which appears on the outside of each roll.
Ruberoid Roofing
manufactured by The Standard Paint Co., is made of wool felt. Its value lies in the gum with which it is saturated and coated so that the gum and wool in combination make Ruberoid
the most lasting roof covering known. This gum contains no rubber and no oil. It is absolutely waterproof. It keeps its life and does not crack or dry out. It resists gases and acids more than other roof coverings. It is tasteless and odorless, and water collected on it can be used for drinking purposes. It is an insulator and so keeps a house warm in winter and cool in summer.
Ruberoid Roofing is highly fire-resisting.

Another advantage of Ruberoid Roofing is that it is also made in permanent colors of RED and GREEN. The reason Ruberoid colors are permanent is that they are not painted on—they are built into the fabric, and so cannot peel off.
The satisfaction Ruberoid Roofing gives in resisting temperature, moisture, chemical action and thus are the proofs of its supremacy, and are known to every man acquainted with roof covering. Our efforts are directed at guiding the consumer through the maze of imitation and enabling him to get RUBEROID
ROOFING when he asks for it.

BALLINGER IS HURT IN CINCINNATI WRECK

Secretary of Interior Is Badly Wounded
Up in Collision of Passenger Trains.

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—Eleven passengers, including Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, were more or less severely hurt in a collision between passenger trains in the outskirts of this city.

Secretary Ballinger's injuries consisted of only a severe shaking up and a slightly bruised left arm.

The two trains in collision were No. 2 from St. Louis and No. 19 from Louisville on the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad.

The accident occurred at Sixth street and Mount Hope road. Both trains were proceeding at the moderate rate of speed and to this fact is due the escape of the passengers from possibly more serious consequences.

Of the injured none will die and several were able to be taken to their homes.

Secretary Ballinger, who was returning to Washington from Oklahoma, went to a hotel, where he rested for some time. He left later for Washington.

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Thirty were slightly injured when train No. 5 of the Frisco was partly derailed between Compton and Tallahassee, Okla., according to reports received at the headquarters of the road.

The engine tank, chair car, diner, smoker and baggage car stood upright after leaving the rails. The mail car turned over. The Pullman cars did not leave the track.

Johannstown, Pa., Oct. 14.—Tearing through the streets at 40 miles an hour, an automobile collided with a heavy freight engine at a crossing, seriously injuring the five occupants, one perhaps fatally.

Coperns, Ind., Oct. 14.—Motor-man Hunt of a freight car was killed and Motorman Dawson of a passenger car seriously injured in a collision on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company's line west here. There were no passengers on the cars.

WARREN G. PURDY PASSES AWAY.

Former President of Rock Island Railroad Is Dead.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Warren G. Purdy, former president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad, died from an illness which eight years ago caused him to resign his high office.

Mr. Purdy's illness is believed to have been the result of an injury received in a wreck in 1900. Mr. Purdy was a passenger on a Northern Pacific train which was turned over in a hurricane. He suffered a concussion of the spine and his nervous system was so affected that he was compelled to retire from active work two years later. The affection steadily became more serious, finally causing confinement to his bed.

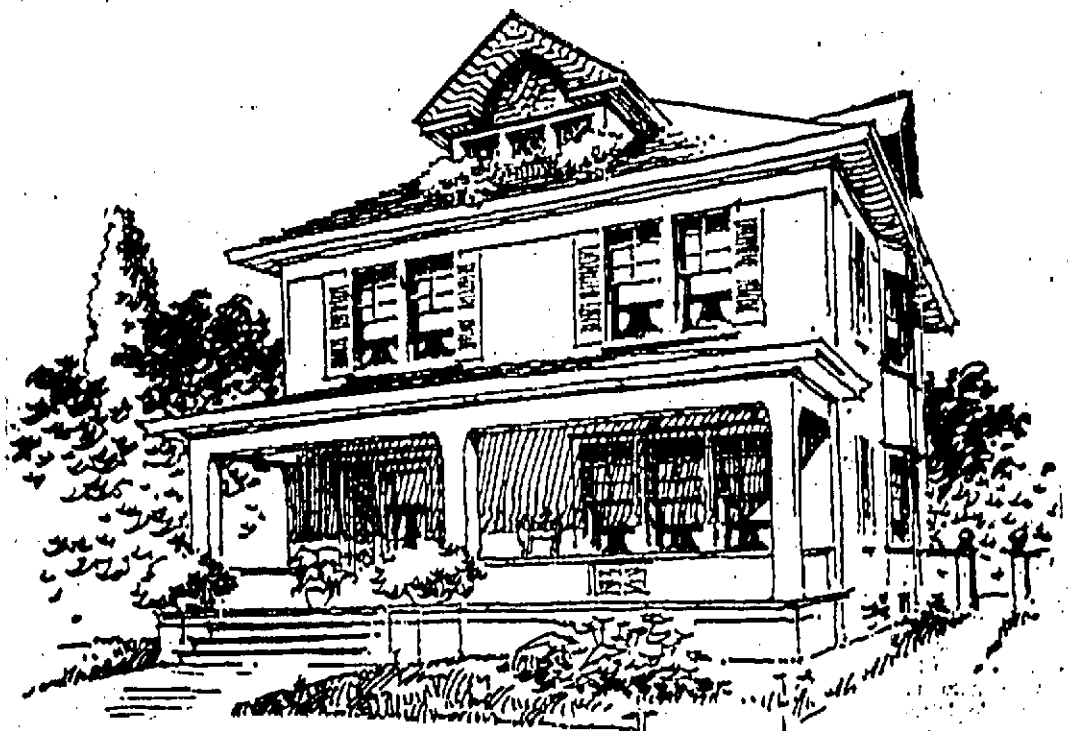

Mr. Purdy was one of the great railroad builders of the central west, and has been named among the country's great financiers. Fifty-nine years old at the time of his retirement, he had risen from the position of office boy to be the head of a great railroad system.

The Ticklemouse
—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

Old Jack Ticklefrost

"WHY, Mr. Ticklemouse!" cried Davy and Dorfy softly when the merry mice had wished them awake. "How funny you look!"

"Doesn't he, now?" grinned Willy Whiskinghouse. "That little pointed cap like Uncle Tick too quick by at least twenty-four hours, and as for the jacket—"

Willy held his shaking sides and laughed till he rolled over and over on the nutmeg rug.

"Jacket nothing—this is a time, I'd have you know!" said the Ticklemouse with a sly twinkle. "Don't you make fun of my disguise, you young rascal—they're poor Jack's Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes, at that."

"Jack's?" Dorfy had never heard the Ticklemouse speak of Jack before.

"Jack Frost himself. Four old chap, he's so dandified with rheumatism to-night he can't stir out of the house, and the whole of Bingley's woods have got to be painted before autumn. Wonder if I was foolish to offer, now?" The Mouse looked solemnly at his little keg of red paint, and scratched the gray head under Jack's funny little cap.

"Well, I should say not," said Dorfy, stoutly. "You're just the nicest, kindest Mr. Ticklemouse that ever helped folks out of their troubles. You're going to take us with you, of course?"

"Why, yes, dearie, if you'll both be quiet so's not to scare the wood people —they aren't used to human chills, you know." He helped them into their sweaters, for the night was cool. "Yes," he went on, as they limped across the frosty meadows, "Jack felt badly to think he couldn't finish up last night's painting."

"The Ticklemouse, his hind legs over a long bough, so he could use both forepaws for the brush and keg, painted busily on, smiling at the antics of the playful three. Davy and Dorfy soon learned how to balance themselves on the big leaves when Willy had wished them small enough, and to sail fluttering to the ground like regular young flying squirrels. It was lots more fun than sliding down haystacks, they found.

But the most fun came when they were starting home, and heard all the freshly painted trees rustle and clap their leaves and laugh—yes, really laugh, as if they were too tickled to keep still till the four were out of sight. Dorfy, eager to know the reason, hung back a little and listened.

"Jack Frost?" a wise old oak tree was whispering to a young maple, between chuckles, "why that's no more Jack Frost than I am. He's just a cheerful old imitation—just a jolly old Jack Ticklefrost!"

OPEN THE DOOR! I.D. ER, I MUST NOT DROP IT

The Inside Facts
of a Shoemaker's Fight
with the Leather Trust*Facts We Want Every Reader of This Paper to Know

A shoemaker up in New York State by the name of George F. Johnson learned his trade at the bench.

Over in Massachusetts a young man, H. B. Endicott, who had won his way by hard knocks, became a leather expert and later a leather merchant at Boston.

In 1891 these two men got together. One was an expert in shoes; the other an expert in leather. No two men ever knew their subjects better.

They formed a partnership. They built a shoe factory in Broome County, New York State.

They made good shoes, and they did well. They were up in the country with no big city rents or high operating expenses. They were plain people themselves, and the money saved in expenses was put into the quality of their shoes.

Everything went well until along in 1893, when certain interests began quietly to buy up tanneries in all parts of the country.

One tannery after another was either closed or taken over and operated by the combination until, like every other shoe concern in the United States, Endicott, Johnson & Co. awoke one day to find themselves in the grip of the Leather Trust.

The price of leather went up. Endicott, Johnson & Co. were no worse off than all other shoe manufacturers, and they paid the advance.

Then they noticed that the leather was not as good as they would like to see it. That touched them on a sensitive spot.

They had stood for the high price. When it came to starving the quality of the leather, they rebelled.

Sole leather is sold by weight, and it began to look like somebody was loading the leather with chemicals instead of feeding it in the tanning and finishing process.

Inside of thirty days Endicott, Johnson & Co. decided to build their own tanneries. The Trade said they were crazy. It was an unheard-of thing—a shoe concern tanning its own leather—a stupendous undertaking; it meant hundreds of thousands of dollars and almost insurmountable difficulties.

It's a long story—the story of those tanneries with literally miles of masonry and acres of tan-vats. But they were built, and successfully operated.

Today Endicott, Johnson & Co. are independent of all Trusts. They are the only shoe people in the United States that do not pay tribute to the leather combination.

They buy the raw hides in the open markets of the world and tan every foot and pound of leather they use. This not only means a big saving in cost and better tannage, but it means tanning every lot of leather with an eye to the particular shoe that is to be made from it—a great advantage in the working quality of the stock and the wear of the shoes.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. have developed processes that double the life of some leathers.

They tan 1,000 skins of calf leather every day.

They tan nearly 2,000 sides of the finest upper leather and 1,200 sides of sole leather every day.

Last year, nearly 30,000 shoe stores sold the product of the Endicott-Johnson Co. factories, which is the largest output of any individual concern.

A beautiful town has grown up around this enterprise—the town of Endicott, New York—where five thousand people depend for their livelihood upon the Endicott-Johnson factories and tanneries.

Established in their tanneries, Endicott, Johnson & Co. save the wearer three profits on the leather in his shoes—the hide dealer's profit, the Tanner's profit and the Leather jobber's profit.

Their last saving to the wearer was to cut out the profit of the wholesale shoe house and sell their shoes direct to the retail store in every town.

The leather in Endicott-Johnson shoes will wear as leather used to wear twenty years ago in the days of honest tanning.

Endicott-Johnson make shoes for the workman and dress shoes as fine as any man wants to wear. They sell school shoes and shoes for women. And because they have cut out four profits between the Tanner and the shoe store they can save the wearer from 50c to $1.00 on every pair and give him a leather that simply cannot be had in any other shoe.

Now the reader will naturally say, "Why doesn't everybody wear Endicott-Johnson shoes and why doesn't every shoe store sell them?"

Everybody does want to wear Endicott-Johnson shoes as soon as they know about them, and nearly 30,000 stores are selling the goods.

Some dealers are not as quick as others to fall into line.

A retail shoe dealer has his friends and his old business associates from whom he has been buying goods for years.

He has a store full of other shoes perhaps, and he doesn't like to break into his lines with another make.

Sometimes a shoe dealer likes to have his own name on every pair of shoes and keep the wearer from knowing where they are made. This enables him to keep the matter of profit entirely in his own hands.

It is not always the shoe dealer's fault. Some large wholesale shoe houses pay expert salesmen $10,000 to $15,000 a year just because of their ability to go out and sell the retail shoe dealer and keep him satisfied.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. do not employ fancy talent on their selling force, and they are somewhat particular as to the kind of dealer that sells their shoes.

After they have worked so hard to reduce the cost of shoes to the wearer and cut out the four intervening profits they want to do business with the shoe dealer who is willing to sell their goods at a fair living profit—a dealer who would rather make his money by a small margin on many sales than a big profit on a few sales.

The selection of the right dealers to handle the Endicott-Johnson line is a problem just as was the building of their tanneries and the getting rid of the shoe jobber.

Endicott, Johnson & Co. can sell all the shoes they make each year. But their business is growing every year and the future of their business depends upon the service they render to the wearer.

It is a question that the wearer must help them decide.

Now as a buyer and wearer of shoes every reader of this paper has a right to vote on this question of buying shoes independent of all trusts.

Are you content to go on paying four profits on every pair of shoes you buy?

Are you satisfied to pay tribute to the hide trust, the leather trust, the leather jobber and the shoe dealer—and about how long do you think you are going to submit to it?

Would you like to see Endicott-Johnson shoes sold in your town?

If you would, who do you think ought to sell them?

Let the City Man Try.
It has been decided in stirring debate by the Pomona Grange of Kent county, Rhode Island, that the city man had better stay where he is and not try to come back to the farm. It is unfortunate that the dispatches from Rhode Island omit to mention why the city man would do better in the city than on the farm. Somehow, it appears to us up in Massachusetts as if the city man was just the sort of man for the farm. The farmer hasn't a rule got much money out of the soil in New England. Why not let the city fellow see what he can do? As soon as he overcomes his aversion to overalls he ought to get along well.

GOVERNORIAL SITUATION IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo, N. D.—Can John Burke, present democratic governor of North Dakota, repeat the feat performed by the late John A. Johnson of Minnesota and for the third time consecutively, win out for governor on the democratic ticket, in a state overwhelmingly republican.

This is the question of the hour in North Dakota and it sizes up the present situation in a nutshell.

John Burke is the issue. Four years ago North Dakota was a solid republican state, completely in the hands of the stalwart republicans. When E. Y. Sarles was nominated by the republicans for governor four years ago there was a howl from one end of the state to the other, many insurgent papers insisting that he was a "gang" man, that he was foisted on the party, wily, unscrupulous, and scores of republican papers came out in support of "Honest" John Burke. Sarles was made the issue and Burke was elected, although every other state officer was republican.

One of the chief accusations against Sarles was that he was a "tool of Alex. McKenzie." McKenzie was the former republican leader and national committeeman from North Dakota. Two years ago the republicans nominated C. A. Johnson, the present republican candidate. The republican party was again divided and Burke was re-elected.

This year the more radical insurgents of the state are again rubbing the old cry of gangsterism and many of them are once more supporting the democratic candidate. The number has greatly diminished, however, Johnson was nominated at a primary election and defeated J. A. Buchanan, radical insurgent and H. H. Auer, independent republican, and before the primaries many of the republican papers pledged their support to the winner and they are sticking to this agreement.

Burke is also somewhat on the defensive this year. Some of his actions in office have been bitterly attacked and in his campaign speeches to date he has spent most of his time answering the criticisms and attacking those who criticize. He started a whirlwind tour of the state September 19 at Harwood, in Cass county and proposes to remain on the stump up to the day of election, November 8. He is a good speaker and has been well received and the democratic claim that he will again be landed in the governor's chair.

C. A. Johnson has a clean record. He has been a member of the state legislature and has been in the public eye in his home city, Minot, for years. He is being most bitterly opposed by one of his home papers which is insurgent republican and which supported him two years ago, but the republicans claim that this opposition is more than offset by many papers now supporting him, but which opposed him two years ago. Johnson has also started a stumping campaign of the state which he proposes to continue during the entire campaign.

Should Burke be elected for a third term the democratic claim that he would be placed before the public as a national figure. Indeed there has already been some action taken toward nominating him for the presidency in 1912.

CHAPTER V.

THE next morning I went out for a walk. I lingered a moment outside Sam Graham's old and much neglected drug store, thinking of the change that had come over it since the death of Margaret Graham, Betty's mother, for, despite its out of the way location, the shop had not always been unprofitable. While Margaret lived my heart still ached with the memory of her name. Sam's business had prospered. She had been one of those women who can rise to any emergency in the interest of her loved ones. The first to realize Sam's improvidence and lack of executive ability, she had taken hold of the business with a firm hand and made it pay—while she lived.

During Margaret's regime, as I say, the shop had thrived. Sam had few ill wishes in Radville. The trade came his way. Then Betty was born, and Margaret died.

Most of this I have on hearsay. I left Radville shortly after their marriage and did not return until some months after Margaret's burial. By that time the shop had begun to show signs of neglect. Its stock was depleted, its trade likewise. Sam was struggling with his inventions more directly than ever—seeking forgetfulness. I always thought. The business was allowed to take care of itself. He had always a serene faith in his tomorrow.

Now, the little shop had been far distanced by the competition of Sothorn & Lee. It was twenty years behind the times, as the saying is. Small, darksome, dreary and dingy, it served chiefly as a living room for Sam, his daughter and his cronies as well as for his workshop. He had a bench and a transom in the one corner, where you might be sure to find him furiously pottering at almost any hour. He owned the little building—that portion of it which it were a farce to term the equity above the mortgage—and Betty kept house for him in three rooms above the store.

I pushed the door open and entered. He looked up with his never failing smile of welcome and a wave of his hand.

"Howdy, Homer! Come in. Well, well, I'm glad to see you. Sit down. I think that chair there by the stove will hold together under you."

"What are you doing, Sam?" I asked.

"Fixin' up the sody fountain. Meant to get it workin' last month, Homer, but somehow I kind of forgot."

He rubbed away briskly at the single faucet which protruded above the counter, lathering it briskly with a metal polish that smelled to heaven.

"Do much sody trade, Sam?" He paused, passing his worn old snovy with a stubble of neglected beard. "No," he allowed thoughtfully, "not so much as we used to now that Sothorn & Lee 're got this newfangled notion of puttin' ice cream in a nickel glass of sody. Most of the young folks go there now, but still I get a call now and then, and every little bit helps." He rubbed on feverishly for a moment. "Course I'd do more, likely, if I carried a bigger line of flavors."

"How many do you carry?"

"One," he admitted—with a sigh, "vanilla."

While I filled my pipe he continued to rub very industriously.

"Why don't you get more?"

"He flashed me one of his pale, genial smiles. 'I'm thinkin' of it, Homer, soon's I get 'some money in—next week, maybe. There's a man in 'S' York that maybe he can be interestin' in one of my inventions, Roland Barnette says. Maybe he'd be willin' to put a little money in it, Roland says, and of course if he does I'll be able to stock up considerable."

I sighed covertly for him. He rubbed, humming a tuneless rhythm to himself.

"Roland's got to write to him about it."

"What invention?" I asked, incredulous.

Sam put down his bottle of polish and came round the counter, beaming.

Nothing pleased him better than an opportunity to exhibit some one of his innumerable models. "I'll show you, Homer," he volunteered cheerfully, shuffling over to his workbench. He looked to Graham, and he followed the direction of my gaze to the workbench, where Sam stood with his back to it, his worn hands folded quietly before him. He seemed a little whither than usual, I thought, and perhaps it was only my fancy that made him appear to tremble over so slightly, for he was quite calm and self-possessed—no much so that I realized for the first time there was another man in Radville besides myself who did not fear old Colonel Bohun.

"In here, colonel," he said quietly. "What is it you wish?"

The colonel swung on him, shaking with passion. But he held his tongue until he had mastered himself somewhat, a feat of self-restraint on his part over which I marvelled to this day.

"You know well, Graham," he said presently. "You got my letter—the letter I wrote you a week ago?"

"Yes," said Sam, with a start of comprehension. "Yes, I got it."

"Then why the devil, man, don't you answer it?"

Sam's apologetic smile sweetened his face. "Why," he said belligerently, "I'm sure I meant no offense; but, you see, I'm a very busy man. I forgot it."

"The devil you forgot it! D'ye expect me to believe that, man?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to."

Bohun was speechless for a moment, stricken dumb by a second seizure of fury. But again he calmed himself.

"Very well," he said slowly, that intelligence for the present.

"It wasn't meant as such, I assure you."

"Don't interrupt me! D'you hear? I've come down to that, Graham. If you can't record me the common courtesy of a written reply I've come to hear it from your mouth."

Sam nodded thoughtfully. "Maybe," he said, "you forget you have failed to accord me the common courtesy of any sort of communication whatever for twenty years, Colonel Bohun. Even when my wife, your daughter, died you ignored my message asking you to her funeral."

"Be silent!" screamed the colonel.

"Do you think I'm here to bandy words with you, fool? I demand my answer."

"And as for that," continued Sam as evenly as if he had not been interrupted, "your proposition was so preposterous that it could have come only from you and deserved no answer. But since you want it formally, sir, it's no."

For a moment I feared Bohun would have a stroke. The back of the chair I had just vacated and his sick, almost supported him through that dumb, terrible transport. He shook so violently that I looked momentarily to see the chair break beneath him. There was insanity in his eyes. When finally he was able to articulate it was in broken gasps.

"I don't believe it," he stammered. "I don't believe it. It's madness. The girl wouldn't be so mad."

"What is it, father?"

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

The greatest value to be obtained from continuous publicity should be fully understood by every advertiser.

Continuous advertising is essential—because Repetition builds reputation; convinces as to faith in self and merchandise.

It establishes in the public mind the idea of permanency and provides against the "out of sight, out of mind."

It fortifies against competition, open or hidden; breaks down indifference and opens the way to intimacy.

Repeated assertion, unchallenged, is accepted as truth.

Regularity creates and takes advantage of subconscious effect on the mind produced through the eye.

Continuous publicity is reputation continuously on the move.

If your advertising appropriation is limited take but one field, The Daily Gazette Readers, and appeal to them. Most everybody in this field reads The Gazette.

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Grantville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forgot to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."

Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R. D. 2, Grantville, Vt.

Another medicine for woman's ills has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weakness, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

HINDOO IMMIGRANTS HAVE HOOKWORM DISEASE.
Dr. Glover stems tide from India. Typical group of Hindoo immigrants. Dr. Glover, who discovered that many of these have hookworm disease.

San Francisco, Cal.—At the present rate of increase of Hindoo immigration it has been predicted that more than 5,000 dusky natives of India would arrive in the United States in the coming year. For the last few months Hindoos have been coming in at this port at the rate of over 300 a month.

Each steamer that comes from the Orient has her quota of Hindoos in the Seattle storage. For instance, the records for the first two weeks in August show the following figures:

August 5th, on the Mongolia, 110.
August 10th, on the Tenny Maru, 75.
August 15th, on the Korea, 50.

Reports received at Washington from the consular agents in India state that no less than 1,500 Hindoos had left Calcutta in five ships recently, with the United States as their destination.

Up to the present time few women have come in this influx of Hindoos, but it has recently been stated that the men are beginning to send for their wives.

Many devices have been suggested with a view of putting a stop to this immigration, which has been generally recognized as most undesirable. William R. Wheeler, who was connected with the department, has proposed a treaty with Great Britain regulating the coming of the Hindoos from India.

Commissioner North has been importuned to stop the tide of incoming Hindoos, and he has been the object of severe criticism for not doing so. His answer has been that as long as each man came with $30 in his pocket, and as long as the surgeons assigned to the work of the immigration department were unable to show that they were mentally or physically unfit to land, he could do nothing to prevent it.

At the same time an investigation is being made from Washington into the conditions surrounding the Hindoo invasion, with a view of discovering if there is not some circumvention of the contract labor law in the coming of these hordes from India. As yet no satisfactory results of this investigation have been announced. If the discovery which Dr. Glover has made of the prevalence of the hookworm disease among the Hindoos shall be proved to be as far-reaching in its results as is now indicated the problem of the Hindoo invasion will have been greatly mitigated, if not very nearly solved, and that without congressional legislation or treaty negotiations.

On all sides it had been recognized that the Hindoos, who were arriving here in such numbers, were physically unfit, but hitherto the nature of the disease, which saps their energy and leaves them anemic and weak, has remained a mystery to the immigration officials.

Machine Hings Wallpaper.
Wallpaper is trimmed, hung and pasted by a new machine invented by a decorator in St. Joseph, Mo. It consists of a small carrier for the roll of paper, which unwinds and feeds across a paste container, while at the same time a set of knives trim it accurately. When pasting a ceiling the operator fastens the apparatus to his wrist, mounts the scaffold and walks along it, hanging the paper as he goes. In bantering the walls he may set the machine on the floor near the wall, climb a ladder and pull the paper out of the machine, pressing it against the wall. —Popular Mechanics.

Mr. Horse Owner, This Is Meant For YOU!

ARE YOU GETTING THE MOST OUT OF YOUR HORSES? Are you making them pay you the dividends they should and would pay you if they were fed on

Case's Molasses Feed

When you buy horse feed the most valuable thing you pay your good money for is Protein. Protein is the flesh and muscle building element that replaces the daily waste of tissue. It does more to keep your horse in good condition and make him a profitable worker than any other element taken into the system.

Numerous tests of Case's Molasses Feed by the University of Wisconsin show it to be richer in Protein and Fats and to contain less fibre or waste than any feed on the market today. It is composed of corn, barley, bran and molasses and is not as expensive as oats to feed. It is not as "heating" as corn and a few weeks of good, steady diet of this feed will make every horse you own as hard as a rock and capable of doing more work than ever before. These are not theories, but they are facts that users of Case's Molasses Feed tell us every day.

Over 400 Rock County Farmers Are Feeding It and it has "made good" in every case. A good hard frost will kill off all the pasture and then it's up to you to buy feed. Naturally you want the best at the lowest price. A trial order of Case's Molasses Feed will give it to you. Don't wait till the feed bin is empty but phone or mail a trial order today. If it never before. These are not theories, but they are facts that
